ST 01-0015-GIL 01/30/2001 COMPUTER SOFTWARE

Generally, sales of "canned" computer software are taxable retail sales in Illinois. However, if the computer software consists of custom computer programs, then the sales of such software may not be taxable retail sales. See 86 Ill. Adm. Code 130.1935(c). (This is a GIL.)

Dear Xxxxx:

This letter is in response to your letter dated November 15, 2000. The nature of your letter and the information you have provided require that we respond with a General Information Letter, which is designed to provide general information, is not a statement of Department policy and is not binding on the Department. See 2 Ill. Adm. Code 1200.120 subsections (b) and (c), which can be found at http://www.revenue.state.il.us/legalinformation/regs/part1200.

In your letter, you have stated and made inquiry as follows:

> There are a few different types of Internet services. The main two types include a link to a web site that includes a password and directions. This type allows online credit card transactions by the Lessee (i.e. Authorize.net). The other type is the creation of an actual Internet site or shopping cart that the Lessee can have customers use to allow for credit card transactions. In neither of these cases is there physical equipment to take title of (unless the set up of the equipment involves the use of disks. If a disk is present, we would take title to that, this is how we handle leases of software. In the cases of purely Internet sites there is not even a disk provided to the Lessee.

The following is a discussion regarding canned and custom computer software and software licenses. Generally, sales of "canned" computer software are taxable retail sales in Illinois. However, if the computer software consists of custom computer programs, then the sales of such software may not be taxable retail sales. See subsection (c) of the enclosed copy of 86 Ill. Adm. Code 130.1935. Sales of software are taxable regardless of the means of delivery. For instance, the transfer or sale of canned computer software downloaded electronically would be taxable.

Custom computer programs or software are prepared to the special order of the customer. The selection of pre-written or canned programs assembled by vendors into software packages does not constitute custom software unless real and substantial changes are made to the programs or creation of program interfacing logic. See subsection (c)(3) of Section 130.1935.

If transactions for the licensing of computer software meet all of the criteria provided in subsection (a)(1) of Section 130.1935, neither the transfer of the software or the subsequent software updates will be subject to Retailers' Occupation Tax. A license of software is not a taxable retail sale if:

A) It is evidenced by a written agreement signed by the licensor and the customer;

B) It restricts the customer's duplication and use of the software;

C) It prohibits the customer from licensing, sublicensing or transferring the software to a third party (except to a related party) without the permission and continued control of the licensor;

D) The licensor has a policy of providing another copy at minimal or no charge if the customer loses or damages the software, or permitting the licensee to make and keep an archival copy, and such policy is either stated in the license agreement, supported by the licensor's books and records, or supported by a notarized statement made under penalties of perjury by the licensor; and

E) The customer must destroy or return all copies of the software to the licensor at the end of the license period. This provision is deemed to be met, in the case of a perpetual license, without being set forth in the license agreement.

Charges for updates of canned software are fully taxable pursuant to Section 130.1935. If the updates qualify as custom software under subsection (c) of Section 130.1935, they may not be taxable. But, if maintenance agreements provide for updates of canned software, and the charges for those updates are not separately stated and taxed, then the whole agreement would be taxable as sales of canned software.

In regards to Internet services, please note that Telecommunications Excise Tax may be applicable. The Telecommunications Excise Tax is imposed upon the act or privilege of originating or receiving intrastate or interstate telecommunications in Illinois at the rate of 7% of the gross charges for such telecommunications purchased at retail from retailers. See 86 Ill. Adm. Code 495, enclosed.

Pursuant to subsection (a) of Section 495.100, "gross charge" means the amount paid for the act or privilege of originating or receiving telecommunications in this State and for all services and equipment provided in connection therewith by a retailer, valued in money, whether paid in money or otherwise, including cash credits, services and property of every kind or nature, and shall be determined without any deduction on account of the cost of such telecommunications, the cost of material used, labor or service cost or any other expense whatsoever.

Generally, persons that provide subscribers access to the Internet and who do not, as part of that service, charge customers for the line or other transmission charges which are used to obtain access to the Internet, are not considered to be telecommunications retailers. See subsection (d) of Section 495.100.

It is our general understanding that most Internet access providers do not, as part of their billing, charge customers for such line charges, but instead, pay to their telecommunications providers all transmission costs that they incur in providing the service. Generally, the customers pay to their providers all transmission costs that they incur while using the service. The single monthly fee charged by such retailers, which often represents a flat charge for a package of items including Internet access, E-mail, and electronic newsletters would generally not be subject to the Telecommunications Excise Tax.

However, please note that persons providing customers with the Internet access described above, but who also provide customers the use of 1-800 service, and separately assess customers with per minute charges for the use of such 1-800 numbers, are considered to be telecommunications retailers. Such retailers will incur Telecommunications Excise Tax on charges made for such 1-800 services.

Subsection (c) of Section 2 of the Act defines "telecommunications," and states that this term does not include "value added services in which computer processing applications are used to act on the form, content, code and protocol of the information for purposes other than transmission." 35 ILCS 630/2 (1998 State Bar Edition). Subsection (a)(3) of Section 2 of the Act states that the term, "gross charge," which forms the basis for the tax, does not include "charges for leased time on equipment or charges for the storage of data or information for subsequent retrieval or the processing of data or information intended to change its form or content." Generally, persons that charge subscribers for access to a specific internet web site and who do not, as part of that service, charge subscribers for the line or other transmission charges that are used to obtain access to the internet or that specific internet web site are not considered to be telecommunications retailers. See subsection (c) of Section 495.100.

If Internet access service providers provide both transmission and data processing services, the charges for each must be disaggregated and separately identified. See subsection (c) of Section 495.100. The statute does not require disaggregation on the customers' invoice, however. Therefore, it is the Department's position that so long as the non-telecommunications charges are disaggregated from the telecommunications charges in the retailers' books and records, for audit purposes, such disaggregation need not be shown on the customers' invoice. If the non-telecommunications charges are not disaggregated from the telecommunications charges, the full amount will be subject to Telecommunications Excise Tax. If none of the charges billed were for telecommunications, then none of the charges would be subject to tax.

Web page creation and design would be considered provision of a service. Retailers' Occupation Tax and Use Tax do not apply to receipts from sales of personal services. Under the Service Occupation Tax Act, servicemen are taxed on tangible personal property transferred incident to sales of service. For your general information we are enclosing a copy of 86 Ill. Adm. Code 140.101 regarding sales of service and Service Occupation Tax. If tangible personal property is not transferred when providing a service, then no tax liability is incurred.

The purchase of tangible personal property that is transferred to service customers may result in either Service Occupation Tax liability or Use Tax liability for the servicemen, depending upon which tax base the servicemen choose to calculate their liability. Servicemen may calculate their tax base in one of four ways: (1) separately stated selling price; (2) 50% of the entire bill; (3) Service Occupation Tax on cost price if they are registered de minimis servicemen; or, (4) Use Tax on cost price if the servicemen are de minimis and are not otherwise required to be registered under Section 2a of the Retailers' Occupation Tax Act.

Since your company appears to be located in STATE, the following discussion regarding the principles of nexus may be helpful in determining your sales tax liability in Illinois. An "Illinois Retailer" is one who either accepts purchase orders in the State of Illinois or maintains an inventory in Illinois and fills Illinois orders from that inventory. The Illinois Retailer is then liable for Retailers' Occupation Tax on gross receipts from sales and must collect the corresponding Use Tax incurred by the purchasers.

Another type of retailer is the retailer maintaining a place of business in Illinois. The definition of a “retailer maintaining a place of business in Illinois” is described in 86 Ill. Adm. Code 150.201(i), enclosed. This type of retailer is required to register with the State as an Illinois Use Tax collector. See 86 Ill. Adm. Code 150.801, enclosed. The retailer must collect and remit Use Tax to the State on behalf of the retailer’s Illinois customers even though the retailer does not incur any Retailers' Occupation Tax liability.

The United States Supreme Court in Quill Corp. v. North Dakota, 112 S.Ct 1904 (1992), set forth the current guidelines for determining what nexus requirements must be met before a person is properly subject to a state's tax laws. The Supreme Court has set out a 2-prong test for nexus. The first prong is whether the Due Process Cause is satisfied. Due process will be satisfied if the person or entity purposely avails itself or himself of the benefits of an economic market in a forum state. Quill at 1910.

The second prong of the Supreme Court's nexus test requires that, if due process requirements have been satisfied, the person or entity must have physical presence in the forum state to satisfy the Commerce Clause. A physical presence is not limited to an office or other physical building. Under Illinois law, it also includes the presence of any agent or representative of the seller. The representative need not be a sales representative. Any type of physical presence in the State of Illinois, including the vendor’s delivery and installation of his product on a repetitive basis, will trigger Use Tax collection responsibilities. Please refer to Brown’s Furniture, Inc. v. Zehnder, (1996), 171 Ill.2d 410.

The final type of retailer is the out-of-State retailer that does not have sufficient nexus with Illinois to be required to submit to Illinois tax laws. A retailer in this situation does not incur Retailers’ Occupation Tax on sales into Illinois and is not required to collect Use Tax on behalf of its Illinois customers. However, the retailer’s Illinois customers will still incur Use Tax on the purchase of the out-of-State goods and have a duty to self-assess their Use Tax liability and remit the amount directly to the State. The Use Tax rate is 6.25%.

I hope this information is helpful. The Department of Revenue maintains a website, which can be accessed at www.revenue.state.il.us. If you have further questions related to the Illinois sales tax laws, please contact the Department's Taxpayer Information Division at (217) 782-3336.

If you are not under audit and you wish to obtain a binding Private Letter Ruling regarding your factual situation, please submit all of the information set out in items 1 through 8 of Section 1200.110(b) described above.

Very truly yours,

Terry D. Charlton
